FAT BOY DIET

Scientific Diet Aids Reducing

Every day at first I went down half a pound, sometimes a pound. It got to be a game—one of the most satisfying games I ever played.

It was a scientific approach that was doing it. I repeat, before dieting always see your doctor first. No more homemade diets for me.

I trimmed the fat. I side-stepped the starch, I short circuited the sugar.

I ate wisely. I ate easily. I ate slowly!

Here is an example of my homemade self-prescribed diet, the reason fatties so often say, "I eat like a bird, yet look at me!"

This is a fine example of how to eat light and stay heavy by concentrating on high calorie foods that put on weight as the keep you hungry.

This won't reduce you:

Breakfast:
Double orange juice, 200
3 slices of any bread, 300
butter 100
Coffee, cream and sugar 25
Dab' of jelly 625

Luncheon:
Cream of tomato soup 300
Sandwich, most two-deckers 300
Glass of milk 150
Hunk of most pies 300
Ice cream, chocolate 250

Afternoon snack:
Milk shake 600
Twenty peanuts 200
Hunk of candy 300
Bottle of beer 200
Soft drink 65
Coffee, sugar, cream 100

Supper (Dinner to Some):
Cream soup 300
Meat (2 rounds) 300
Potatoes (2 rounds) 300
And bread, buttered (5 slices) 500
Two more for gravy licking 200
Double order vegetables 100
Another spoonful waiting for dessert 50
Salad— Roquefort dressing (yum) 300
2 cups of coffee with cream, sugar 200
Apple pie (my size slice) 300
With hunk of cheese 100
Some Brazil nuts (50 calories each) 300
Two after-dinner cordials 150
Cigars or cigarettes or pipes 000

Depending on how often he sneaks off for these midmorning and midafternoon snacks that don't count if nobody is watching, Fatty—operating under his home-grown system—has totalled

A 40-Mile Road Now Under Construction

WANDERING RIVER — Forty miles of road, culverts and bridges is being built by the Golden Construction Co.

The road starts from Wandering River, continues north on the East side of the Lyle Lake and follows a high ridge which, at one time, was called The Hog's Back, and on to a place called Pelican Rapids, where saw mills will be operating this winter.

The outfit consists of three caterpillars and equipment.

This is supposed to be a winter and a summer road and will encourage new settlers to come into this good farming country.

Health Board Begins Operation; Unit No. 18 Holds Second Meeting

ATHABASCA — The second meeting of the board of the Athabasca health unit No. 18 was held in the town hall, Athabasca on Thursday, October 30 at 1 p.m. Members present included Chairman V. Breckenridge, Dr. Baster from the Department of Health, Mr. Frank Swann from the Department of Municipal Affairs, Mr. J. S. McDowell from Westlock, I. Stonehocker from Athabasca and Secretary R. K. McCallum of Athabasca.

The secretary read the minutes of the first meeting, which had to be corrected slightly before being adopted.

It was decided to give each board member a map of the area showing the health unit boundaries as the large area involved makes it hard to visualize the territory to be covered by the staff. The health unit includes all of M.D. 103, Improvement Districts 102, 124, 107 and 122, plus a small portion of M.D. 92 in the vicinity of Tawatinaw. The area north of Grassland, across the river, and the south side of Lesser Slave Lake will all be within the boundaries of the unit.

The isolation wing of the old hospital site has been decorated for the temporary quarters of the staff during the winter months. Miss M. Pool, senior nurse, and Mrs. C. Bages, stenographer technician, are now working in their office in that building. It is hoped that the lower floor of the town hall will be available in early spring as permanent offices for the unit.

In the absence of a medical health officer for the unit, Miss Poole was appointed as staff supervisor. Discussion on the office hours resulted in no definite decision but the board felt that the prevailing custom on hours should be followed as closely as possible.

Surprise Shower Given Bride-To-Be

PLAMONDON — A surprise shower was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Esdras Belanger in honor of a bride-to-be, Miss Isabelle Plamondon. About 30 guests attended. Several lovely gifts were presented, as well as a large baby chenille bedspread.

Games were played and Isabelle thanked everyone with a very impressive speech, stating how nice it was to be back with all her old friends again. The "mock wedding" brought shouts of laughter from everyone.

Being Isabelle's birthday, a delicious birthday cake, made by Mrs. Harold Belanger, was presented, and a delicious lunch was served.

Bazaar, Annual Supper a Success

LAC LA BICHE — The United Church Ladies Aid had a successful Bazaar and an Annual Supper. The ladies would like to thank each and every one who worked hard to make it a success, also all who attended.

Anyone wishing more of the dolls' clothes such as were displayed also the ready cut clothes just to be sewn by your own little girls contact Mrs. J. Stewart at the Drug Store.

Church Services

LAC LA BICHE — Sunday, November 9, St. Andrew's Church (Anglican), service at 7:30 p.m. Will all Anglicans please attend. Monday, November 10 — St. Luke's Parish (Anglican) at Goose Lake, service at 3 p.m.

cussion on the office hours resulted in no definite decision but the board felt that the prevailing custom on hours should be followed as closely as possible.

Dr. Baster reported that no nurses were available yet for the assistant's position, but that this unit would be notified if he learned of any possible applicants.

A number of applications were considered for the doctor's position on the staff, with three suitable names being selected by the board. The government requires that the doctor be trained in public health work before being accepted by the board for a position. Several highly trained and well qualified doctors with varied experience will be contacted to determine their availability for the work here. The board is very hopeful about having a doctor for the unit before spring.

The necessity of purchasing a staff car received considerable attention from the board as the secretary had contacted a number of local dealers regarding a trade-in on the present car. From the limited number of bids available, the board accepted a very attractive offer from Landing Motors for a trade-in on a new Meteor sedan. All Board members were agreed on the necessity of providing safe and reliable transportation for the employees when carrying out their duties.

Mr. D. Plummer, a sanitary inspector, has already visited Athabasca to see what accommodation might be available for his family to live in. Negotiations are underway to have Mr. Plummer begin operations on January 1 if possible.

The budget had not been approved, and returned by the department of health at Edmonton, so the meeting was adjourned after a motion to cover payment of current bills had been made.

AMONG THE MANY European ports visited this summer by the Royal Canadian Navy's Atlantic Command training flotilla was one particularly close to Canada's heart: Dieppe, where the Canadian Second Division of 5000 men suffered appalling casualties in their heroic assault of August 19, 1943. In the above photograph Commander J. C. Littler, captain of the Crescent and senior officer afloat in the force, has just laid a wreath in honor of the Canadian dead on the Dieppe Memorial during French National Day ceremonies. A-Settin' and A-Thinkin'

Too tired to stand these New Zealand horses like to sit and think while the sun shines and cool breezes rustle the grass. On occasion, like the one on the right, they may bother to look your way should you happen along. Looks like it's too much effort, though. The horses, which belong to a Te Awamutu, N.Z., rancher, started the peculiar habit of squatting on haunches while resting, some time ago. If lying down, the command: "Get up, you loafers!" will bring both to the unique sitting position.

Master Farm Families

Once again we pause to congratulate the Hon. David A. Ure, Minister of Agriculture, on the Master Farm Family plan carried on by his department to honour the Alberta farming industry. By comparison to farming, any other Alberta business is of dwarf size, even including the booming oil business.

Community Publications, publishers of this paper, are proud of the fact that three of these families live in districts served by one of our community papers. The Edmonton Sun serves the Winterburn farming district near Edmonton, home of the E. R. Lewis family. The Mundare Star, a new comer to the Alberta weekly field this year, is circulated in the John Skrypitsky home town and district of Mundare, and the Beiseker Times is well known to farmers of the Beiseker district, where the J. H. Schmaltz family are also well and favourably known.

The Radio License Fee Farce

The Liberal party's advisory council, meeting in Ottawa last week, urged the government to abolish the $2.50 radio license fee. It's a good thing if the government will do it and it's about time.

Proponents of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation as an independent branch of government services argue that the only way to keep it independent is to have a separate radio license fee which shall be paid by the radio owners, and not have the costs of the CBC paid from the general funds of the government.

We have argued that a tax is a tax and regardless of what tax supports the CBC it is still dependent on the government for its revenues to exist. It will be just as easy for the Canadian people to pay for the CBC through income taxes as through a special radio tax, and have the terrific costs of keeping hundreds of men employed in going around collecting this tax.

The principle of the radio tax is totally foreign to our modern Canadian ideas and ideals. A small army of "investigators" is kept busy each year patrolling the streets and highways and byways of our country checking up on every citizen for his radio license fee. It isn't sufficient to buy a license—the radio owner is supposed to keep it ready for inspection at all times, and having a license doesn't in any way save one from the snoopings of the Department of Transport investigators.

A nation with over $300,000,000 surplus shouldn't have to stoop to a $2.50 nuisance radio license fee. There is no reason why hundreds of able-bodied men should be kept from doing useful work while Canadians, rich and poor alike are taxed the same fee to keep them on the government payroll.

Wheat Quality

Western Canada's big wheat crop is turning out to be one of good quality, according to a recent report from the board of grain commissioners.

It is expected that 65 per cent of the production will grade 1 and 2 northern compared with 6 per cent last year and a ten-year average of 70.3 per cent. Last year only .04 of 1 per cent graded 1 northern, 5.6 per cent 2 northern. About 20 per cent of the crop will grade 3 and 4 northern.

It now appears that the protein content of the crop will be better than originally expected. No. 1 wheat has an average protein content of 13.2 per cent, No. 2 northern 12.7 per cent and 3 northern 12.5 per cent. The long-term average for Canadian wheat is 13.6 per cent.

Note and Comment

Stocks of grain in prairie country elevators totalled 141.7 million bushels on July 24th, compared with 99.0 million bushels in stock on the same date a year ago.

The Bible Today

Add thou not unto His words, lest He reprove thee, and thou be found a liar.—Proverbs 30:6

Remembrance Day, 1952

By REV. GEORGE W. CAMPBELL
Pastor, MacDonald Baptist Church, Edmonton—

Tuesday, November 11 will find most places of business closed, and in many places groups of our people will gather to remember and honor the men and women who gave themselves as casualties of war. In many a home there will be sad hearts because of the loved ones who sacrificed, suffered and died for their love of homeland, family, and freedom.

Many of us who are older recall when November 11 was Armistice day, and the high hopes that seemed to be symbolized in that day and the League of Nations. For such as us this day brings heavy hearts and troubled minds for we have seen those hopes dashed to the ground in a second world conflict and we realize the terrible danger of atomic war.

As I write this on a beautiful Indian summer day I remember, many years ago, the parade of school children to the memorial in my home town. I can still recall some of the mingled feelings of hope and reverence as we stood for the silent minute. Vivid, too, in memory are the words inscribed to the memory of the dead: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

They were noble words, even to a boy, and it was only years later that I realized that they were not first written for those war dead, but for one who laid down His life, not on a battlefield, but on a cross. As I think back I realize that today when the troubled condition of our world, and the disillusionment that has come with the failure of our magnificent schemes for peace has left so many wondering whether there is any purpose in history and any meaning to life, there is no more needed remembrance than that, because the death of Christ answers once and forever the great questions of history:

There is a God, He cares for men such as us, and in spite of the evil men may do He still works His purposes out, for the One who died on a cross at the hand of wicked men is He who three days later rose in triumph over all the forces of hate and evil.

Ridgway On War Danger

General Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, recently held his first press conference at SHAPE and reported: "There is no reliable evidence known to me upon which we can justify the conclusion that the potential threat of armed aggression currently confronting us has been in any way abated."

Ridgway issued this warning at the same time he declared that the military goal of 50 divisions and 4,000 combat aircraft—which had been set at Lisbon earlier this year by NATO powers—was within "capacity" of the Allies. But he added that whether they will achieve the goal is "speculative."

It is obvious from Ridgway's remarks that he considers the situation in Europe more serious than many of the European Governments, which have been squabbling about the task of financing the rearmament program. In fact, it has only recently become known that the governments of some European nations are now concluding that the 50-division goal cannot be met.

This is a repetition of the same things which have happened in Europe, and in NATO too often in recent years. On this Ridgway had the following comment: "The military means available to us for carrying out the defensive purposes of NATO continue to be seriously inadequate in certain vital categories."

Thus, more than four years after the Marshall Plan was begun, and more than a year after the NATO organization was set up, the Allies in Europe still have no solid front and the latest military goal is apparently not to be met. The Supreme Commander warns that the danger of Russian aggression is just as great, however, and it might be—as it usually is in the case of democracies—that it will take an actual attack to stir the NATO powers into a whole-hearted effort.

Voice of the People

ALL CLEAN IN ARGENTINE

In a recent issue of your paper you refer to Argentina as Latin Fascism. Every once in a while we see articles like this in other papers, too.

I wonder why?

Argentina has managed to stay out of war and destruction which is more than we can say for ourselves here in North America.

I was in Argentina a few years ago and found the people happy, peace-loving and their only desire was to be left in peace. They have not the class distinction that you see in some parts of North America.

So, maybe we have enough dirt in front of our own door if we wish to do any cleaning up.

THE HOPEFUL

I give a little sigh . . . inside,
For all the contests I have tried,
And all the golden dreams I've spun,
Things I could do, if I had won.

But dreams are such elusive things,
And substance lacking, soon take wings,
Though wheels of fortune I would spin,
Fate never deems that I should win.

I give a little sigh . . . and then,
Another contest? Where's my pen?

APPRECIATE GIFTS

After enjoying reading your paper, we send it to our son who, too, gets much pleasure from it. We especially appreciate the only way this paper gives us to know what is going on in the municipality's affairs.

May we take this opportunity to thank all those who were so kind as to send us so many vegetables all summer. It was like a real garden coming to us without trouble, so we didn't miss the one we were unable to make this year, and we appreciate it very much.

SAYS WE'RE DEGENERATE

A recent Voicer "Converted to S.C.", blames Ottawa for high taxes. "Ratepayer" advises we have all become sycophants with hypocrisy in our daily lives. In the same issue the editor states we have freedom of the press and no political persecution here in Alberta.

All this is typical of Alberta's degeneracy. Political victimization of the press and personal freedom of assembly is rampant here. We live under the Union Jack and those who should "defend the right" are making Alberta a police state. Is there any denial to this?

GOOD OLD SQUARE DANCE

Please put in your Edmonton Sun columns the follows:

Congratulations to the Westlock Agricultural Society for the lovely gifts given to the square dancers at their last exhibition. Believe me, these gifts are much more appreciated by every couple than trophies, for it gives us a souvenir! Sincere thanks to them from us all.

FRENCH GIRLS SCORNE

In answer to those four dashing airmen stationed in France who told the Voice that Canadian girls don't even rate next to Parisian beauties, let me say that they must be blind to the fact that French girls are out for what they can get. I suggest that when they get out of service, they don't come crying to us "unappealing" Canadian girls.

CALLS POLITICS CORNY

Newspapers could boost their circulations if they'd show more pictures of political celebrities greeting each other. These shots are funnier than the comics, and have more ham in them. The politicians invariably pose grinning like Cheshire cats. Perhaps they're thinking of all the yokels they're going to snare into voting for them.

Fear Rats May Be Common In Alberta In 25 Years

W. Lobay, Supervisor of Crop Protection, Alberta Department of Agriculture, warns that a slackening of interest can mean that rats will be well established in all parts of this province in the next 20 to 25 years. It took 30 years for them to cross Saskatchewan, says Mr. Lobay. Rats first invaded Canada over a century ago when the first white settlers started coming in. They have slowly followed man westward since.
As far as Western Canada is concerned, rats were first noticed at Emerson in 1900. By 1914 reports of rats came from Delor-aine, Winnipeg, Portage La Pra-rie and Brandon. The movement
1919, rats were seen near Yorkton,
Sask. In 1929, rats were established in Regina and Moose Jaw.
Slowly but surely, the westward movement reached Saskatoon and Swift Current by 1935-39. At the end of the next ten years (1940-49) the movement westward saw rats established within ten miles of the Alberta boundary in the region through Loverna and South towards Alsask.

In 1950 the first colony of rats in Alberta was discovered west of Alsask, and since that time effort has been made to destroy every rat that made its appearance in the province. To keep the rats out of Alberta, co-operation of everyone in the province will be needed.
Any signs of rats should be reported immediately to the nearest pest control officer so that prompt action can be taken.

New Pulp Mill At Yates

International Resources Limited, of which Richard Randall is president, plans to construct a pulp mill at Yates in the Edson district it was recently reported. This company had a contract with the provincial government covering construction of a $6,000,000 mill, and the assurance of a supply of needed timber to operate it. However, the original contract has been allowed to lapse, it was stated, and negotiations are expected to be entered into for a more extensive project. Unofficially, it has been estimated that a new contract will call for construction of a mill valued in the neighborhood of $20,000,000.

Bang's Disease Of Cattle

No. 3 in series by Dr. E. A. Ballantyne, Director of Veterinary Services, Alberta Department of Agriculture.

The symptoms of this serious cattle disease are as follows: A cow may lose her calf prematurely at five to eight months of pregnancy. This is followed by other cows in the herd losing theirs too. In some herds a whole calf crop has been lost from the disease. Sometimes only 20-50 per cent of a calf crop is lost. That is serious though, as the cattleman's gross income in a couple years when these animals should be ready for the market will be down several hundreds or thousands of dollars.

The usual story with Bang's disease infection in a herd is that a cattleman buys a cow or more, doesn't get it blood-tested to see if it has the disease or not, brings it home, and after a while she loses her calf. This is followed by more cows giving birth to calves prematurely. Then some cows may have to be sold due to sterility from the disease, and the breeding program is upset. Usually, though, only the odd cow becomes sterile from the disease. Bang's disease has just about ruined many cattlemen. It causes an estimated $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 loss in Alberta annually.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I live with my daughter but I have my own income and can afford my own apartment, if I wish. We get along very nicely and I am very fond of my grandchildren.

There is only one thing about the situation I dislike. My daughter and her husband feel free to go out any evening. They never ask if it suits me to stay with the children—they just take it for granted that grandmother will be here.

I am thinking of making a change. Two out of three times I would be home when they wish to go but I do think they should find out if it suits me before they make definite plans.

What do you think I should do?
GRANDMOTHER.

Answer:

Why don't you be frank with your daughter and tell her that you have not completely retired from the world as yet and have plans of your own, occasionally. Tell her that while you are usually glad to stay with the children, you must ask her to consult you before making definite plans for you to be home.

If she pays no attention to this and expects you to be there, one evening, when you have something else to do, just tell her that you are sorry but you have an engagement you do not care to break, and they will have to stay with the children themselves.

I think that will be a better plan than moving out. You say that you get along nicely together and since you do, there are advantages to you both in living together. You have company and protection, your children have the kind of help for their children that is hard to find or buy.

Your problem should not be a hard one to solve.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

A married man has asked me for a date. He works in the office with me and his wife is very unsympathetic and does not understand him.

He is very attractive but I don't think I should go, do you?

ALLIE B.

Answer:

For heaven's sake, don't fall for that old line about the wife, who doesn't understand.

She probably understands him too well and knows what a rascal he is.

When a single girl dates a married man she is usually playing with fire and deserves to get burned.

LOUISA.

What's in the Name ETZIKOM

The village of Etzikom derived its name from the Blackfoot word meaning valley, coulee; it was also known in Blackfoot as misloonsis-co or "cow springs coulee," as the Crow Indian war parties used to water here. Until 1916 the place was known as Endon P.O.

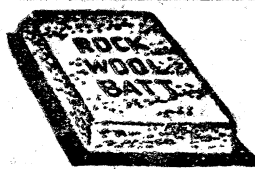

The first homesteaders in the district came in 1909 from the Dakotas. The first to come were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Terriff. In 1910 a large influx was experienced in the district. The community really began to develop around 1915 when the railway went through. The first general store was owned and operated by A. T. West of Macleod. The O'Neils built the first hotel.

Etzikom is some 85 miles east of Lethbridge with farming being the main occupation in this area.

ERITH

Erith is located some 11 miles west and 13 miles south of Edson. It is on the east branch of the Embarra river, and probably got its name after Erith, a town in Kent, England.

There are some people in the community who have become rich in recent years who are now realizing that money does not solve their basic problems.

One day our science teacher was doing a chemical experiment in front of our class. I asked a question about the experiment and, without looking up, the teacher answered my question and concluded: "... do you understand it now, Rattler?"

I was so absorbed in watching the experiment that I forgot to reply and just nodded my head. A moment later the teacher said: "Why don't you answer, Rattler?" I replied, "I did, sir, I nodded my head." To which the teacher replied, "I did hear it rattle, but I couldn't tell whether it was 'up and down' or from 'side to side'."

It was several weeks before the other members of the class let me forget that answer.

"RATTLER."

Peavine, Alta.

Walking to meet my small daughter, a beginner in kindergarten, I met the mother of one of her classmates. Chatting with her, I spoke about my daughter's extreme timidity and said I hoped the other children wouldn't pick on her. Just then her child ran screaming to us, closely pursued by my child, who was striking her with a stick.

"A very valuable citizen"

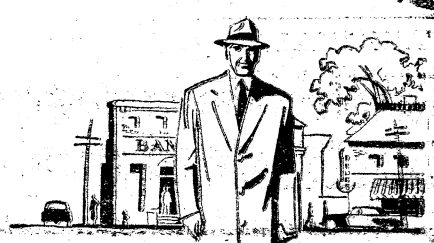

When a bank manager was transferred recently a group of citizens wrote the bank in tribute to his sense of public service:

"During the time he was here, we found him to be a very valuable citizen. He always took a deep interest in our community, so we feel we have lost a valuable asset. However, we feel sure that his replacement will be made with a man of similar calibre."

A bank man, by the very nature of his work, becomes part of the life around him. During his training in various branches, and as he takes on growing responsibilities, he learns more and more about people and how his bank can help them. And he brings to his community his personal readiness to serve in any way he can.

CONVAIR-LINER, seen above, will speed passengers throughout Alberta, B.C., and the Northland on Canadian Pacific Airlines routes. The Airline has purchased five of the craft, the first to be delivered in December and the balance shortly afterwards.

Sleek New Aircraft Will Carry Passengers On CPA Western Lines

Sleek new planes—the Convair-Liner—will soon be winging passengers on the far-flung Canadian Pacific Airlines throughout Alberta, B.C., and the Northland.

Purchase of the planes for use on the mountainous routes was announced by Grant McConachie, pioneer bush pilot and president of C.P.A.

Flying times will be greatly reduced, compared to those in effect now, and passengers will enjoy the comfort of sea-level cruising while flying at heights ranging to 20,000 feet. This is accomplished by the cabin pressurization, which creates sea-level conditions in the cabin no matter what the altitude.

The Convair-Liner is a twin-engine aircraft which carries 40 passengers, plus cargo. Top speed is 340 m.p.h., and the aircraft is powered with Pratt and Whitney engines of 2400 horsepower each.

Passengers can be assured of the greatest safety as radio and navigation instruments are of the latest design, and a highly efficient de-icing system is featured.

Luxurious reclining seats, tasteful interior colors and extra large windows are features which will add greatly to passenger comfort.

The five new planes will be placed on the various routes as soon as they are received in Vancouver.
